

Televisions

There are several types of televisions including rear projection TV's and the normal pix tube TV here at Mac Smart Home Centre we have a range of both and have the staff to align and install both. Rear projection TV's are still one of the first choices for a large screen pix but be careful they do differ in quality and certainly with the recent price repositioning of these larger set they are quite affordable and represent great value for money.

The conventional pix TV's have certainly slowed down in the market place over the past two years and these days the smaller sets are still great value for bedrooms and second family areas but have definitely been affected by the space saving and popularity of plasmas and LCD TVs.
